

Northern Consortium UK Ltd

As a unique limited company owned by a consortia of 11 leading Northern UK universities, NCUK were suffering from a lack of support from their well-known accountancy firm. To make matters worse this lack of support was beginning to cost them money...

Before

- Lack of support from a large accountancy firm; resulting in ongoing weaknesses in the client system and no direction or input regarding how matters might be improved.
- Accountancy errors in client accounts resulting in financial losses.
- Lack of support and advice from previous accountants.

After

- Proactive advice and guidance from Hallidays resulting in improved systems, stronger internal controls and a close review of budgets and forecasts.
- We corrected their figures and provided one-to-one guidance on how to interpret the numbers, increasing the confidence of the management team and board when making decisions.
- Ongoing support at any time from Hallidays team.

Outcome

Better information has allowed the senior management team to present financial reports to the Board of Trustees with confidence.

It has also enabled them to produce a robust business plan and enter new markets with the knowledge that they have a management information system in place which reports full, timely and accurate information.

What the client said

“ In the time we have worked with Hallidays we have faced a number of challenges. But the team at Hallidays never fail to impress with the speed at which they get to the heart of any problem we have faced and identify constructive and commercial solutions. The Hallidays team offers a truly proactive approach. ”
